

'Annie' launches new theater group's proc

By Meggan Clark - July 9, 2008

A new local theater company aims to teach young people about theater through performance w

Dynamic Productions Inc, founded in June, will present its first production, "Annie," in August.

"We really hope to tap into the performing arts community of Greater Portland ... not only to pu productions are great," said Jeffrey Poulin, a recent graduate of Scarborough High School and s

The board of directors of Dynamic Productions consists of Cheryl Greeley, owner of South Portla Greeley's daughter Rachel and her husband Nathan Shuster, who holds a graduate degree in m the organization's business manager. Greeley and Shuster have extensive experience in dance :
2006-2007 touring with a national dance company, Dancers Inc.: Competitions and Convention

"Annie" performers have been rehearsing several hours a night, mainly at Cheryl Greeley's The scheduled for 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Aug. 8-10 at the Portland Performing Arts Center.

For more information, see www.dynamicproductionsinc.com.

Meggan Clark

<http://www.keepmecurrent.com>
